Peer review policy

The Journal of Veterinary and Animal Sciences published by the Kerala Veterinary and Animal Sciences University employs the double-blind peer review process, where both reviewers and authors remain anonymous throughout the review process.

Each manuscript submitted by the authors first undergoes a preliminary review by the editorial team. The manuscripts found qualified will be forwarded to the reviewer. The identity of the authors will not be revealed to the reviewer and vice versa. The review process is managed through the journal management system.

The author corrected article after incorporating corrections suggested by the reviewer will be sent for language editing by the team of language editors, after which a final review will be done by the board of editors for approval.

Plagiarism checking

Manuscripts are qualified to be forwarded to the reviewers only after screening for plagiarism using software subscribed by the University.

Open access policy

The Journal is an open access journal allowing everyone to read, download, copy, distribute print, search or cite the articles published free of cost.

Also the articles published in the Journal of Veterinary and Animal Sciences are available online, full text PDF version is available for free download and is licensed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution License (CCBY).
